weekly, to suit the purchaser. Goods delivered on first payment. This is the plan used in the past, and the same course will be continued at the Cash and Credit stores of John Rudden, 29 and 32 Seventh street

The Choral Society Concert.
The second concert of the Choral Society was given last evening at Lincoln Music Hall to a crowded house.
The programme was varied. The triumph of the evening, however, was secured by Miss Mary Howe of Brattleboro, Vt. Miss Maud Powell's violin playing was, as is usual with her, admirable both in conception and execution. Mr. Fred. Ellinger sang in an acceptable manner. Of the choruses "Hill Rose" was the most effective.

Assaulting an Officer.
George Reed, colored, was on trial to-day in the Criminal Court, charged with assaulting an officer. There were only two witnesses in the case, the policeman and the defendant. Paul Kuster, the officer, testified to having approached Reed in citizen's clothes for the purpose of arresting him for vagrancy and Reed resisted. A verdict of guilty was returned, and Reed was sent to jail for eleven months.

Entertainment at All Souls.
A musical and literary entertainment under the auspices of the Parish Union, fessor E. A. Fay. The entertainment was greatly enjoyed.

Reduced Rates to Western Points.

Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and the far West at rates much below former prices.

to consult with the ticket agents of the B. & O. before purchasing your tickets.

Preparing for Another Fight.
There seems to be prospects for a meeting between Northridge and Mc-Millan. A deposit of $50 for a fight for $250 to $500 a side has been put up and other arrangements are now in progress. It is said that articles of agreement will be signed to-day. The mill promises to be an interesting one.

Advice to Mothers.
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. 35c a bottle.

ATHANASIUS AND HILARY.

Rev. Dr. Chappelle Talks About Their Fight Against Arianism.

Rev. P. L. Chappelle, D. D., continued yesterday his course of lectures at the Catholic University on "The Typical Personages of Patristic History," by a discussion of the lives and works of the two great doctors of the Church, St. Athanasius, Patriarch of Alexandria, and St. Hilary, Bishop of Poitiers. They were nearly contemporaries.
In the year 335, when the Council of Nice was held, Athanasius was 28 years of age and Hilary was a child of 10 years. Hilary has sometimes been called the Athanasius of Gaul.

"In the long gallery of Christian ages, from the time of the Apostles, there is no grander figure than that of Athanasius. During fifty years of conflict with Arianism, the rise and decline of which he lived to see, he withstood that most dangerous heresy through good and evil report, with unsurpassed ability, and with a courage, constancy and moderation which are fairly unexampled. His writings, whether directed against idolatry or Arianism, are masterpieces of a simple, correct style."

The lecturer described the peculiarities of the Arian heresy, which he said was a reversion in Christian language of the errors of ancient polytheism, and at the same time a promulgation of modern humanitarianism. "All ancient and modern errors concerning God, the Trinity and the Incarnation, however contradictory they may be as to terms, may be reduced to the Arian formula. The monster mythologies of Egypt and India, the poetical theogony of Greece and of Rome, the philosophical dreams of Plato's Thætetus, the mystical speculations of his disciples, and the wild fancies of the Gnostics, are all contained, as in a germ, in the proposition that the created Son of the unknown God, mutable and imperfect, is God and the Creator of all things."

That this heresy was a novelty among the Christian people is shown by the fact that when it was preached the faithful were shocked, and only a small portion of those who had received the faith from their fathers gave hearty adhesion to the sect. Hence, it was stated by St. Jerome that the ears of the people were purer than the lips of some preachers.

A long and careful analysis of the history and nature of Arianism was followed by an account of the work of Athanasius and Hilary in combatting it, and a history of the general and local councils of the Church which dealt with the Arian question. Summing up the life of Athanasius, who survived his younger co-laborer by four years, he concluded with a beautiful description of his death, written by St. Gregory Nazianzen.

To-day being the feast of St. Gregory the Great, the thirteenth century of whose ordination is to be celebrated in different parts of the world with great ecstasy, Dr. Chappelle added a few words regarding that great doctor.

Next Wednesday afternoon Monsie-neur Joseph Schneider, D. D., dean of the divinity faculty, will lecture in French on "L'Action Civilisatrice de la Papauté."

Few occasions in the musical history of this city have been more charming and valuable than the concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the third and last but one of which will take place on Friday evening, March 21, at Lincoln Music Hall. To the attractions of a programme closed by the noble Beethoven "Fifth Symphony" will be added the singing of Miss Mary Howe, an artist of not only the highest promise, but with a remarkable record of high achievement already accomplished.

HUNG HERSELF WITH A TOWEL.

Mrs. Hupfer Commits Suicide White Suffering from Melancholia.

Mrs. Mary Hupfer committed suicide last night at her home, 406 P street.
When her daughter, Mrs. Wetzel, returned from work at the Government Printing Office she found her mother's dead body suspended by a towel from a bed-post in her room.

Mrs. Hupfer has acted in a manner that thoroughly well-satisfied her friends that her mind was impaired.
She has been subject to fits of melancholy, and, at times, oblivious to her surroundings. Dr. Adams was summoned, but found that the body was cold, and he did not hesitate to give a certificate of death by hanging. He had been attending Mrs. Hupfer some time and was satisfied that she was of unsound mind.
